

vetMove Database

The database is used to store requests from vetMove users when they make a move request on the website. It also stores the names of the moving companies and truck rental companies. The information that is stored in the database when a user makes a request includes; to and from zip codes, number of people moving, square footage, number of rooms, company chosen, and a to do list for the move.